

California Food & Justice Coalition

San Jose Member Meet Up, Tue., Mar. 4th, 3:00 PM – 7:00 PM
1922 The Alameda, San Jose, Room 107

Cosponsored by Collective Roots, Conexions, Healthy Silicon Valley, the University of California Cooperative Extension Santa Clara County and the Center for Agroecology and Sustainable Food Systems

Help guide our work to transform California's food system

We invite you to attend the California Food and Justice Coalition's San Jose Region Member Meet Up on Tue. March 4th, 3pm – 7pm, United Way, 1922 The Alameda, San Jose, Room 107. Snacks will be served.

This meeting is for YOU – our members and allies - to learn about and help guide our coalition in its path towards becoming a more powerful political force and creating an equitable, just and sustainable food system for all of us.

Learn about and provide feedback on our coalition's new training and mentoring program.

How can our emerging training and mentorship program best support groups like yours?

Determine our campaign and policy priorities on a local, state and federal level for the next two to three years.

What should we advocate for over the next two years?

This meeting is one of up to a dozen member meetings that CFJC is hosting around the state from December 2007 to March 2008. This event is co-hosted by Collective Roots, Conexions, the University of California Cooperative Extension Santa Clara County and the Center for Agroecology and Sustainable Food Systems.

The California Food and Justice Coalition is a statewide membership coalition committed to the basic human right to healthy food while advancing social, agricultural, environmental and economic justice. Through advocacy, organizing and education, we collaborate with community-based efforts to create a sustainable food supply for the residents of California. We envision a California food system in which all activities, from farm to table, are equitable, healthful, regenerative and community-driven.

We encourage you to contact us prior to the meeting and give us your opinion on what our policy programs should be over the coming years. RSVP to jessicabell@foodsecurity.org, 510-704-0245 so we know how many people to cater for!
